Ansaldo STS awarded EUR 14.7 million Turnkey Railway signalling contract in Australia

Ansaldo STS (STS.MI), a Finmeccanica Company, through its subsidiary Ansaldo STS Australia, has been awarded a new EUR 14.7 million (A$ 17.9 million) contract from Western Australia's Public Transport Authority (PTA) to provide the signalling system for a 7.5 km extension to Perth's metropolitan railway line.

Ansaldo STS will design and deliver the signalling for the new extension which will include the deployment of its key MicroLok® interlocking technology from Clarkson Station (currently Perth's most northerly railway station) to Butler. Ansaldo STS' Automatic Train Protection technology will also be installed.

The project will take approximately two years to complete.

The extension of the railway line to the northern suburb of Butler, 41 kilometres from Perth's central business district will service more than 2,000 additional passengers who are expected to travel from the new station at Butler daily.

Ansaldo STS has been delivering railway signalling and transportation solutions to the PTA for more than 10 years.

Established in Australia in 1995, Ansaldo STS has offices in Brisbane, Newcastle, Sydney, Perth and Karratha.

Ansaldo STS, listed on the Italian Stock Exchange, is an international leading technology company that supplies transport solutions and signalling technology in the global Railway & Mass Transit Transportation business with the provision of traffic management, planning, train control and signalling systems and services. It acts as lead contractor and turnkey provider on major project worldwide. Ansaldo STS is headquartered in Genoa, Italy, and employs over 4,100 people in 28 different countries. In 2011, its revenues reached € 1,212 M, with a gross operating margin of € 116 M and net profit of € 73 M.
